HABIT TRACKER

Build habits that fit your actual life - not an imaginary productivity robot version of you.

The original spreadsheet was beautifully simple: four habits, four weeks and a notes column. That's the useful bit we're keeping. No formulas, no dashboards, no pretending you need Excel open every time you drink some bloody water.

This PDF turns that tiny tracker into a proper printable workbook: choose habits deliberately, define what 'done' means, make them small enough to repeat, track four weeks, notice patterns and decide what deserves to continue.

The point is not a perfect streak. The point is making useful behaviour easier to repeat.

1. BEFORE YOU PICK A HABIT

What do I want to make easier or more automatic?

Why would this habit actually improve my life?

Am I choosing it because I want it - or because the internet says successful people do it at 5am?

What already works that I could build on?

What usually gets in the way?

What is the smallest version that would still count?

REALITY CHECK

A habit should support your life. If maintaining the habit becomes a second unpaid job, shrink the bastard.

2. CHOOSE YOUR FOUR HABITS

HABIT 1

The habit:

Why it matters:

My minimum version:

What counts as DONE?

HABIT 2

The habit:

Why it matters:

My minimum version:

What counts as DONE?

HABIT 3

The habit:

Why it matters:

My minimum version:

What counts as DONE?

HABIT 4

The habit:

Why it matters:

My minimum version:

What counts as DONE?

Four is a maximum, not a challenge. One useful habit repeated beats four abandoned by Wednesday.

3. MAKE THE HABIT EASIER TO START

When will I do it?

What existing routine could I attach it to?

Where will it happen?

What do I need ready in advance?

What friction can I remove?

What reminder would actually work for me?

What is my low-capacity version?

HABIT FORMULA

After / before _____, I will _____.

On low-capacity days, the minimum version is _____.

Make starting stupidly easy. You can always do more once you've begun.

4. FOUR-WEEK HABIT TRACKER

Same bones as the original spreadsheet - now printable and actually nice to use.

Write your habit names:

Habit 1: _____

Habit 2: _____

Habit 3: _____

Habit 4: _____

WEEK	HABIT 1	HABIT 2	HABIT 3	HABIT 4	NOTES
WEEK 1
WEEK 2
WEEK 3
WEEK 4

Use ticks, crosses, dots, stickers, rude little faces - whatever makes sense. This is evidence, not an exam.

5. WEEK 1 REVIEW - OBSERVE, DON'T JUDGE

Which habit happened most naturally?

Which one was hardest to remember?

What helped?

What got in the way?

Was my minimum version small enough?

What will I change for Week 2?

Week one is reconnaissance. Nobody gets expelled for missing Tuesday.

6. WEEK 2 REVIEW - FIX THE FRICTION

Where am I repeatedly getting stuck?

Is the cue/reminder working?

Is the habit happening at the wrong time?

Do I need to prepare something in advance?

Am I trying to do too much?

What tiny change would make repetition easier next week?

If the habit keeps failing in the same place, stop demanding more willpower and redesign the bloody setup.

7. WEEK 3 REVIEW - CONSISTENCY WITHOUT PERFECTION

Which habit is becoming more automatic?

What happens after I miss a day?

Do I restart quickly or declare the whole week ruined?

What is my realistic success rate?

Which habit still earns its place?

What would 'consistent enough' look like?

A missed day is one data point. It is not a ceremonial burning of your entire routine.

8. WEEK 4 REVIEW - KEEP, CHANGE OR BIN

Which habit genuinely helped?

Which habit became easier?

Which one still feels awkward or pointless?

Did any habit need a smaller/bigger version?

What did I learn about when and how I follow through?

What do I want to keep next month?

VERDICT

- KEEP IT - useful and repeatable.
- CHANGE IT - useful idea, wrong setup.
- PAUSE IT - not the priority right now.
- BIN IT - turns out I do not need another habit-shaped obligation.

9. WHEN YOU MISS A DAY

What actually happened?

Was it forgetfulness, capacity, disruption, avoidance or a bad setup?

Does anything need fixing?

What is the smallest restart?

Can I simply continue tomorrow without turning this into a personality crisis?

RESTART RULE

Do not wait for Monday, the first of the month, a new notebook or Mercury to stop doing whatever Mercury is allegedly doing. Continue at the next useful opportunity.

10. HABIT STACKING & CUES

What do I already do reliably?

Which habit could naturally follow it?

What visual cue could help?

What environmental cue could help?

Would a calendar reminder genuinely help or would I swipe it away like the other seventeen?

What reward or satisfying finish could make the habit easier to repeat?

MY STACK

After I _____,

I will _____.

Then I will _____.

11. LOW-CAPACITY HABITS

The version for days when your grand routine can frankly fuck off.

HABIT 4

Minimum versions keep the door open. They are not cheating.

12. HABIT VS GOAL

Is this something I want to repeat - or something I want to finish?

What result is the habit supporting?

How often does it actually need doing?

Will repeating it indefinitely still make sense?

When should I review or retire it?

A habit is repeated behaviour. 'Renovate the kitchen' is a project. Please do not attempt to renovate the kitchen every morning before breakfast.

13. NEXT MONTH'S HABIT PLAN

HABIT 1

Keep / Change / New / Pause:

What will it look like next month?

HABIT 2

Keep / Change / New / Pause:

What will it look like next month?

HABIT 3

Keep / Change / New / Pause:

What will it look like next month?

HABIT 4

Keep / Change / New / Pause:

What will it look like next month?

ONE THING I'M DELIBERATELY NOT ADDING

30-DAY MINI TRACKER

For one habit you want to watch daily.

Habit: _____

1	2	3	4	5	6
7	8	9	10	11	12
13	14	15	16	17	18
19	20	21	22	23	24
25	26	27	28	29	30

Don't worship the streak. Look for the pattern.

FINAL REFLECTION

What habit helped most?

What did I learn about how I build consistency?

What made habits easier?

What made them harder?

Where was I expecting perfection?

What habit am I keeping?

What am I changing or dropping?

What is one thing I can make easier for Future Me?

A FINAL FLAMINGORISE NOTE

You do not need a 47-step morning routine to prove you're getting your shit together.

Useful habits are boringly repeatable. They fit your life, survive imperfect weeks and make something you care about a little easier.

Track the pattern. Fix the friction. Keep what helps. Bin what doesn't.

Small steps. Real change. A brighter you.

Rise. Heal. Soar.
